I am an experienced Business and Communications Leader. I am currently the Director of IT Strategy & Transformation at SUSE Software Solutions - a global software development company, supplying open source technologies to companies such as NASA, BMW, SAP and Deutsche Bank.

I have spent the majority of my career supporting well known global organisations such as Warner Music Group, Unilever, GSK and MacMillan Publishing through significant, transformational periods of change, often enabled by new systems and technology tools. With strong skills in communications and engagement, I have also worked as a consultant to many Government ministries and agencies. This includes developing and implementing a nationwide communications framework used by the UK Children's Workforce, as well as promoting UK trade and education for No:10, HM Treasury and UK Trade & Investment.

With deep connections to Glebe over the last three decades, along with my skills in engagement, change and governance, I can bring a wealth of experience to support the work of the School and the Board of Governors.
